

Word Power

Expand your vocabulary the way master spellers do: learn the Latin and Greek prefixes, roots, and suffixes that form the foundations of the English language. Study the history of English, Latin, and Greek word parts and practice combining them to create existing words as well as neologisms (neo, “new”; log, “word”). Explore the different vocabulary or lexicon (lexis, “word, speech”) used in academic areas from art to genetics.

Duke TIP's Learn on Your Own Word Power unit was produced by the Duke University Talent Identification Program.

Director of Domestic Educational Programs	Brian Cooper
Coordinator of Independent Learning:	Lyn Hawks
Author:	S. Janan Casar
Editor:	Lyn Hawks
Copy Editor:	Bobbie Collins-Perry
Editorial Assistants:	Amanda Gladin-Kramer Kelly Mills
Illustrator:	Robin Follet
Book Designer:	Kimberly Naclerio

© 2008 Duke University Talent Identification Program